

Principles of environmental law in the Paris Agreement on Climate Change [Principios del derecho ambiental en el Acuerdo de París sobre Cambio Climático]

Garín A.L.

This article focuses on the latest legal instrument of the international regime on Climate Change, the Paris Agreement and the environmental principles it contains, for which the climate phenomenon, its own regime and the long path that has been followed in the climate negotiations will be contextualized, in order to arrive at this last generation environmental agreement; then the seven Principles identified as relevant in the Agreement and other topics of interest are addressed, to derive some consequences that may be generated in light of this new multilateral instrument that is in the process of implementation. © 2019 Universidad Externado de Colombia. All rights reserved.

Adaptation to Climate Change

Climate Change

Environmental Law

Environmental Principles

International Regime